HOW I WORK

People First. Always.

A building sale is one transaction, but it affects every owner differently. I will work with the board on strategy and offer individual conversations about each owner's priorities.

Expect clear comparisons, regular updates, and candid recommendations. I will explain which offers deserve consideration, where expectations exceed the evidence, and when the terms do not justify a sale.

For residents, we can compare ownership costs with future housing expenses and explore a negotiated lease to stay. For investors, we can assess income, capital needs, and net proceeds, with tax advisors reviewing individual consequences.

I plan to partner with a residential agent to help owners who need to move. My experience includes large-scale multifamily transactions and deals across the country; I will remain directly involved.

Know the value. Then decide.

Complimentary valuation.
No commitment to sell.

YOUR OPTIONS

Two ways to move forward.

Sell the full building, or package the units of willing owners.

01 Sell the full building

Market the entire property as one transaction, using one of two approaches.

TWO MARKETING APPROACHES

Full public marketing

List the property publicly, market it broadly, respond to inquiries, and arrange building showings.

ADVANTAGE

Wider exposure and buyer competition.

TRADEOFF

More public exposure and showing activity.

Confidential targeted outreach

Approach selected brokers, buyers, and institutions. Require every participant to sign an NDA/confidentiality agreement before receiving confidential materials. Arrange showings only after confirming serious interest and the buyer's financial ability to proceed.

ADVANTAGE

A quieter process with controlled access.

TRADEOFF

A smaller buyer pool may limit competition.

02 Voluntary group sale

Package only the units of owners who choose to sell together and market them as one offering. Participation is voluntary; pricing depends on the units included.

Marketing: Participating sellers agree on public or targeted outreach.

Approval: A full-building sale requires applicable owner approval. A group sale involves participating owners, with counsel reviewing restrictions.

THE DECISION

Value, costs & financing.

Start with the evidence, then consider what the options mean for you.

A supported valuation

I will prepare a Broker Opinion of Value using income, expenses, condition, capital needs, and market evidence. You will receive a supported range and the assumptions behind it.

If you want to stay

I can explore a lease with prospective buyers. Accessing equity while staying in familiar surroundings could provide flexibility and fewer direct building responsibilities.

Continued ownership

Compare mortgage payments, taxes, insurance, dues, and potential assessments with estimated net proceeds and future housing costs. Separate confirmed obligations from estimates.

Rent, lease length, renewals, and protections must be negotiated. Staying is not guaranteed, renting may not cost less, and a sale gives up ownership and future appreciation. Building costs still influence rent.

Financing individual units

The lender assesses the building as well as the borrower. An appraisal alone does not establish project eligibility. A full-building buyer's financing is evaluated separately.

AUGUST 3, 2026

Fannie Mae Limited Review and Freddie Mac Streamlined Review retired for covered applications. Applicable exceptions remain.

JANUARY 4, 2027

The standard reserve allocation rises from 10% to 15% of annual budgeted assessment income for covered applications. A qualifying reserve study may support an alternative.

Unresolved critical repairs can prevent eligibility. Routine maintenance or an assessment alone does not automatically disqualify a project. We will seek a lender review; any alternative-financing comparison should use actual quotes.

Reviewed September 25, 2026. No building eligibility determination has been made. The reserve rule does not automatically mean a 15% increase in dues.

GETTING STARTED

Clear terms. A measured process.

PROPOSED COMMISSION

1.25%
of the final sale price

Payable to my brokerage at closing. The fee reflects the scale of the transaction and my interest in a lasting relationship. All compensation is negotiable and subject to written agreement.

Buyer-broker compensation

Any seller-paid buyer-broker fee is additional to my fee. Brokers should state it separately in the offer for negotiation and written agreement.

Other closing costs

Transfer taxes, title charges, and legal fees are separate. Title pricing may be reduced for a coordinated multi-unit closing. Actual costs require confirmation.

What I need for the valuation

- 01 Expenses: 2025 and, ideally, Jan 1-Sept 1, 2026 operating expenses.
- 02 Capital improvements: Work completed in the last five years and work planned or needed, with costs if available.
- 03 Building ages: Roof, elevator, masonry, windows, and boiler.
- 04 Maintenance: Sprinkler updates needed and when the driveway was last paved.
- 05 Current rents: Unit numbers and monthly rents from willing owners. No tenant names needed.

For lender review: budgets, reserve studies, insurance, minutes, assessment information, inspections, and ownership documents. Full checklist and lending background online.

Approval: Chicago generally requires at least 85% approval for a full-building sale unless governing documents require more. A qualifying sale can bind dissenting owners. Counsel must confirm procedures and owner protections.
